

Happy Thanksgiving from CSI!

With Thanksgiving fast approaching, the whole CSI team wants to thank its clients, vendors, and friends for their business and support during one of the busiest fall periods in over a decade! Recent client accolades attest and support CSI in having become the expert for planning complex programs on the National Mall. As shared in the October edition of Bizbash, "With so many complications, it can help to use companies familiar with the location's peculiarities." No truer words could be echoed by an event professional with their organization or client's success in mind.
